Please join us for the Academy Award®-winning documentary about sculptor and architect Maya Lin who, at age 21, designed the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C. Relive the gripping story behind the Vietnam Memorial and the public struggles that surrounded the project while exploring a decade of Lin's creative work. Her design of the Civil Rights Memorial, the Yale Women's Table, and the Juniata Peace Chapel reveals her ability to address major issues of our times through the healing power of art.

We invite the public – especially our local Veterans – to come share memories of this important time in U.S. history as well as thoughts surrounding the creation and future of the Vietnam Memorial, one of America's most renowned monuments.
